

STANDARD OIL FILES ANSWER

To Government's Petition For Rehearing Of Appeal From Landis' Decision.

DUTY OF KNOWING RATE IS LEGAL

Cannot Be Imposed Upon The Shipper, So Counsel Concludes—Discrimination Not Shown By Any Evidence.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Sept. 10.—The counsel for the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, in an answer filed today to the petition of the government's attorneys for a rehearing of the appeal from Judge Landis' judgment finding that corporation $29,240,000 for alleged violations of the anti-trust laws, uphold as good law, amply justified by the record of the case, the decision of Judge Grosvenor, Baker, and Seaman of the United States circuit court of appeals reversing the judgment and lifting the burden of the enormous fine.

It has been urged that the court should give consideration again to the purpose which Congress had in the passage of the act making it criminal for shippers in interstate commerce to accept or receive concessions from the local, published transportation rates, viz.: to strengthen and make more effective the provisions and great purpose of the interstate commerce act. But counsel for the government, it is contended, do not have the motive that they have shown that those principles have been violated or disregarded by carrier or shipper in this case. The record does not sustain but disproves any such contention. There is nothing of inequality of rates as between different shippers, or of favoritism or preference to this defendant or discrimination in its favor in the matter of rates, either asserted or proven in this record. Let that fact be kept in mind. Moreover, the court is reminded that evidence to prove this contention by the defendant was not admitted in the regular trial.

Duty of Adhering to Rates.
But it is not, after all, for the securing of equality of rates as to all, or preventing discriminations and preferences as between shippers that the learned counsel ask the court to reconsider the purpose of the Elkins Act. This is confirmed by their petition for rehearing, as well as by the record of the case. They say (Petition, p. 3) that it is particularly in that portion of the evidence which tends to show the necessity of some showing by the government of knowledge on the part of the accused shipper of the lawful rate, in order to justify his conviction of crime because of his shipping at an other and lower rate, that the court has failed to give due weight to the great purpose which Congress had in mind in the passage of this law. The court is invited by counsel to find in that act a purpose on the part of Congress to impose upon shippers in interstate commerce the duty of ascertaining and knowing that the rate which they pay for transportation is the lawful rate, at the peril of committing a crime if it turns out otherwise. The court on the contrary has held the direct opposite. In other words, it was not a duty TO ASCERTAIN THE RATES, which the court there held was imposed upon the shipper, but TO ADHERE TO THE KNOWN RATES, which is quite a different matter.

The exceptions which counsel take to the statement of the opinion of this court with respect to the position and rulings of the trial court upon the question of knowledge on the part of the accused shipper of the lawful rate, are based upon a misapprehension of the opinion and of the record. The material questions here are these:

1. Did the court in its opinion, with accuracy and fairness, state and give full consideration to the rulings of the trial court upon the question here decided?
2. Does the opinion then fairly meet

"UNCLE IKE" AND CONNOR HAVE GOTTEN TOGETHER

According To Program, Marshfield Man Will Again Be Republican State Chairman.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 10.—The Stephenson managers have decided to accept Wm. D. Connor as chairman of the republican state central committee and E. A. Edwards, the manager of the Stephenson campaign in the republican contest, will not be a candidate for the place, although formal announcement has not yet been made to this effect. Close consultation last night and today between Stephenson and Connor first gave a clue to this program and later the fact that the Stephenson men would support Connor for state chairman was practically confirmed from official sources.

Senator Stephenson and Mr. Connor met yesterday afternoon in the grandstand at the state fair grounds and at this meeting the way was paved for a longer conference between Mr. Connor and some Stephenson men which was held last night. The program seems to be an attempt at harmony. Governor Davidson, who is here, has been urging this plan, and whether in their attempt to present a fight for the republican ranks, pledges will be made to demand a point in the republican platform to be adopted at the candidate convention for an investigation of the money expenditures in the senatorial campaign, which the Davidson people propose, undoubtedly plans for the selection of Senator Isaac Stephenson by the legislature for United States senator. Secretary of State Froese, who is acting as spokesman for the harmony program, is in the city.

The La Follette people are still covering their plan. When the hints were made yesterday of Geo. B. Fadden as a compromise candidate for chairman of the state central committee they made no comment and although giving some show of intending to have the ultra La Follette men work as a unit in the convention, they are talking very little in regard to the hand that they shall play there. W. C. Cowling also is not making any statement of his plans as to a possible candidacy for the state chairmanship. The harmony program, which the Davidson people propose, undoubtedly plans for the selection of Senator Isaac Stephenson by the legislature for United States senator. Secretary of State Froese, who is acting as spokesman for the harmony program, is in the city.

NEGRO MASONS HAVE 100TH ANNIVERSARY

Forty-two Colored Grand Lodges Are Represented at Big Meet.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Boston, Mass., Sept. 10.—A four day celebration was inaugurated in Boston today in observance of the centennial anniversary of the institution of the first grand lodge of colored Masons in America. Nearly all of the 42 colored grand lodges of regular Masons in the United States and Canada have sent representatives to the celebration, which is being conducted under the direction of the Prince Hall grand lodge, P. and A. M., of Massachusetts.

A parade of blue lodge Masons preceded the opening of the anniversary exercises in Symphony Hall this afternoon. The exercises were of a historical character and included the reading of the original warrant 459 from the grand lodge of England, which is the foundation of the authority upon which the order in the United States stands. The chief feature of the exercises, however, was an oration by ex-representative William L. Stead, a past grand master of the Prince Hall grand lodge.

Though the first grand lodge of negro Masons dates from 1808 there were subordinate lodges among the negro residents of Boston and vicinity many years before that time. In 1775, Prince Hall, then 27 years of age, wended his way to the quarters of General Gage on Copp's Hill to become a Mason. In British lodge 58 he was initiated into the order in the American colonies. On March 6, Prince Hall and 11 other negroes were authorized to work under dispensation until they were authorized by charter. Prince Hall was not content with the limited powers contained in the dispensation from the army lodge. He petitioned General Joseph Warren for a charter. His request was entertained, but before action could be taken Warren fell at Bunker Hill. Hall then applied to the provincial grand master of modern Masons of Massachusetts for a charter. This petition was rejected on account of his color.

Prince Hall and his followers decided to make application to foreign masters for that which had been refused them at home. On March 2, 1784, he asked the grand lodge of England for a warrant of constitution. The warrant was granted September 29, 1784. In 1787 Captain James Scott, who married the sister of the celebrated John Hancock, was requested by Prince Hall to bring the warrant for African lodge back with him. In April of the same year Captain Scott delivered the warrant in person to Prince Hall.

The lodge of negroes celebrated with great pomp and ceremony the arrival of its warrant from England on December 27, 1787. The organization of the first lodge was followed by the formation of two other lodges of negro Masons. In 1808 the three lodges joined in forming "African grand lodge" of Boston—subsequently styled the Prince Hall grand lodge of Massachusetts.

PEACH GROWERS OF GEORGIA MEETING

Convention Called to Order by Mathews of Fruit Growers' Association.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 10.—The extent and importance of the peach growing industry of Georgia was evidenced by the large attendance at the opening in this city of a mass convention of peach growers of the state. President Mathews of the Georgia Fruit Growers' association called the convention to order in the assembly room of the Kimball House. After several preliminary addresses had been delivered the meeting took up the discussion of important questions affecting the interests of the peach growers.

Before adjournment it is expected the conference will result in the formation of a permanent organization which shall embrace in its membership all the prominent peach growers of the state. It is hoped by co-operation to remedy many defects in methods of shipping and to secure better markets and prices for the growers.

The principal feature of the conference was a general discussion of water analysis, which was participated in by representatives of the laboratories of the universities of the four states mentioned.

ANCIENT BICYCLE CLUB CELEBRATES

Boston Bicycle Club to Take 28th Annual "Wheel About the Hub" Tomorrow.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Boston, Mass., Sept. 10.—The Boston Bicycle Club, which boasts of a longer continuous existence than that of any other organization of cycling in America, has completed arrangements for its twenty-eighth annual "Wheel About the Hub" tomorrow. The run will be over the same roads, stopping at the same spots, on route, which the club traversed on its first run in 1879.

The club has seen many changes in the methods of transportation. The old-fashioned "high wheel" has vanished completely, and automobiles now transport some of the older members over the course. And instead of the old two-wheeled "ambulance" that carried the supplies, and occasionally a broken wheel, or a disabled rider, a motor truck now attends the cavalcade of riders.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 10.—The commodities clause of the Hepburn railroad act was today declared to be unconstitutional by the United States circuit court for the eastern district of Pennsylvania. The clause provides that it shall be unlawful for any railroad company to transport from one state to another or to any foreign country any article or commodity, manufactured, mined, or produced by it under its authority, except such commodities as may be necessary for its own use in the conduct of its business as a common carrier. The clause was aimed particularly at railroads owning coal mines.

SCENES AT FIRE IN GERMAN BAR-

BY REV. ROBERT C. DENISON

Janesville Party's Tour of Manchuria —Certain Interesting and Humorous Observations Along the Way.

(By Rev. R. C. Denison.)
Peking, China, Aug. 3rd, 1908.
Traveling in China can be done with a fair degree of comfort so long as one stays on the few established and beaten tracks. But even a slight venture off these is at the peril of one's peace of mind. For instance, the South Manchurian railroad from Dairen to Mukden, which crosses much of the territory fought over in the late war, runs no sleeping or dining cars. You are supposed to travel by day and to carry a lunch or live on the fruits and cakes you can buy at the wayside stations. The Japanese, however, are building both dining and sleeping cars at Dairen and will soon have them ready. The Imperial railroad of North China, from Mukden to Peking, has comfortable first class coaches and dining cars. This road was built with a little loan and is managed by Englishmen. It runs no night trains, however, originally because the Chinese feared to have the ghosts of the dead disturbed, and now the custom is considered simply because customs are hard to change in China. Second class on these or any other trains in China is impossible for many uncomfortable reasons. But we braved the fates and went by night from Dairen to Mukden. Passenger and freight trains are combined and are run at a speed which would make an American way-freight feel like the "Twentieth Century Limited."

Dawn on Manchurian Plain.
At four a. m. I was up, the darkness of sleep and the dawn. The Manchurian plain was beautiful. The soil is a rich brown clay loam and the crops appeared to be in the condition, the tall Chinese corn rivalling even the Nebraska. I could see highriders from the American Bridge Co., New York, piled up along the way. This road was built with capital furnished from American condition that the materials be bought there.

Jap Soldiers in Evidence.
At Hal Cheng I could hear the bugles playing the morning call. In the barracks of the Japanese rail-guards. The Japanese, by the terms of the Portsmouth treaty, are followed fifteen soldiers, as guards, for every unit of railroad, an amount they count in the barracks, the quarters, the unpaid rails by the roadside, and perhaps even some railroad which they hope to build some day.

Russian Cars as Tool-Houses.
At several points I saw old Russian freight cars, with the Russian names still on them, pushed to one side and used as tool houses. We passed through Liao Yang where one of the great battles was fought, just above which the Japanese are building a new bridge to replace one destroyed by the Russians in their retreat, and the train came into Mukden on time. The schedule is so slow it could not be late and keep moving at all.

Mukden is Rather Comfortable.
Mukden is not an interesting city, apart from the fact that it has been and still is a center of international complications. The Russians built little that was permanent here. Their interest was political and not commercial and they were content simply to get control of the country. They spent considerable money and under Russian rule times were good in Mukden. The Japanese are hampered by lack of money but they have already put up one hospital and have a number of buildings for railroad offices in construction. They are already working their own goods into the Manchurian markets and I was told by a gentleman who was well-informed that they had already largely supplanted American goods, even where their own articles were inferior. This is the Japanese policy everywhere, so far as I can learn.

Surprising Exhibit of Dirt.
The old Chinese city of Mukden was interesting to me for two reasons —its poverty and its dirt. Its streets were full of strange sights and there was more dirt in its backyards, courts, alleys, houses, and on its various citizens than I had imagined could be accumulated and made to stick on any one locally. The American consul told me that the city was very much improved, however, in many respects.
The old wall, with its imposing gates, still surrounds the city. It is much displaced in places but affords a fine view of the city and surrounding plain.

Official Corruption in China.
I had an illustration, in a passing way, of the general feeling concerning official corruption in China. On one of the main street corners a sort of pavilion had been erected. There was an open platform with steps, behind it a canopy of curtains. From behind the curtains came fearful and wonderful sounds of a tinkling stringed instrument. Every once in a while a gaudily dressed man emerged from the curtains, blowing on a little flute, and he was followed by another, thumping a pair of cymbals. The pavilion decorations were tinsel and cheap. I asked a French storekeeper what it all meant. "It is the emperor's birthday," he said, "and this is the celebration. In a few days, now, somebody will send down to Peking a bill, I think, $5,000 for the entertaining the people of Mukden on the Emperor's birthday."

Railroad Washout Encountered.
There has been much rain in North China this season and when we came to leave Mukden the Chinese railroad, to Peking, was washed out.
Nobody seemed to know when the next train would run. I talked with a man who was on the last train that had been able to complete its journey after running miles through the water. He said that the prospects for more trains were very dark. He had never seen the water so high in that section.
Some people had been living on their roofs for days. At certain points, people whose houses and farms had been flooded, came on to the train begging for food.

The Great Chinese Wall.
So we took the Japanese railroad back, traveling south from Mukden to Nowhallowing, the busy port town of South Manchuria, and then went across to the Peking road below the washout.

Because there are no night trains, it was necessary for us to make a stopover at Shunhai-Kiwar, where the great wall of China comes to the sea. In the early morning I walked from the hotel, through the rain and mist, to the wall. Portions of it are in excellent preservation and parts of it are but earth heaps and fallen bricks. I could follow it westward over the hills with my eye, this broken barrier of Chinese exclusiveness fast crumbling and giving way to the coming of a newer civilization.

"To Awake in 1,000 Years"
The thing I was most interested in getting in China was the basic for an answer to the question: What will the future be? Will China hold its own and remain as an empire or will she disintegrate before the more advanced Powers? I have talked on this question with all the English speaking men of every nationality whom I have met in China. The weight of opinion is that China has ample resources in the latent intelligence and ability of her population but that her life will have to be reformed and moralized, especially that latter. This is the opinion of all sorts and conditions of men. Whether this reformation and moralizing and consequent saving of the empire is something which will actually take place is a matter on which men differ widely. There is, however, a strong feeling among those that the process is already under way and advancing. This is the opinion of those whose estimate seems to me the most trustworthy. Some think the advance will be very, very slow as one man laughingly said: "In about 1,000 years China will wake up."

American Diplomacy's Chance.
In the meantime much will depend on the occidental nations treating China ungrudgingly and in good faith.
Here is a great moral opportunity for American diplomacy, and one in which John Hay so nobly directed the nation in meeting during the dark days of the Boxer uprising in 1900. The Chinese people are marvellously interesting and their life in city and country abounds in things strange and fascinating to the western eye. But I cannot write of them now.

Comopolitan Peking.
Peking is an international city.
Soldiers of every considerable nation may be seen upon the streets in the legation quarter. Since 1900 all of the legations have kept armed guards.
On the night we arrived in the city, as I was passing through the hotel corridor, I met a Frenchman whose eyes were as big as saucers. "The first the first!" he shouted, "run and see the first!" I told him it was too late to go to a fire and he left me in disgust.
I followed him into the street, however, and away over the tops of some buildings I could see the fire-colored smoke rolling.

Explosion in German Barracks.
The street was full of people running and little companies of soldiers going at double-quick. In a few moments there was an explosion which shook the city. Then about fifty Chinese men went by, from the fire as from death. When I reached the entrance of the German compound men were passing in and out the gate and there was shouting and confusion above the crackle of the flames. In a few moments they began to carry out the dead and wounded on blankets and mattresses. Some of the poor fellows were pitifully mangled and one man came running with a human leg in his hand. The German stables and other barracks were afire and the emergency ammunition room had exploded. When the alarm was given the French soldiers had rushed in from their compound to help the Germans and two of them had been killed and a number wounded. The Americans, whose quarters are some distance away, arrived just three minutes after the explosion.

Primitive Fire-Fighting.
The water supply was altogether inadequate, Peking having no city water system, and it was necessary to supply the fire to burn itself out. Great efforts were made to confine it to the two buildings already afire, and to this end shots and mattresses were thrown down and small buildings demolished. After about three hours the danger of its spreading was over. It was a weird sight as one looked from the city wall into the enclosure. In the glare of the flames men were working like beavers, cutting away awnings, carrying out timbers, wheeling away gun-carriages, and passing buckets of water.

A Babel of Voices.
Commands and calls rang out in all languages, German, French, Japanese, Russian, Italian and sharp and clear came a good, strong American voice:
"Get a hold of that rope!" A group of diplomats stood by my side on the wall. First they talked in English.
Then one of them made a remark in French and instantly and naturally they all glided into German. In a moment another came along and spoke in French, and with perfect ease the whole party took up the conversation in that language.

U. S. A. There in Emergency!
Peking is perhaps the most com-popolitan city in the world. Going from the top of the wall into the German compound I met an American soldier on guard. He was a fine looking young fellow from Buffalo, N. Y. In a few moments the American captain came out, a big man who, as I was told the next day, had been a whole host in the fire. My informant said:
"He was the only man who would go anywhere. He would wait a door broken in and would be hesitating over doing it when he would come about grain and ax, and smash his way in." This is perhaps more national brag than oriental news but then, being eight or nine thousand miles away from home excuses a bit of Jinghism. And of China more by and by.

Navigation of the Rock River a Live
Question--Why Not?

It has more water than the Fox and can be made available at less expense, says Rev. Jos. Carden—Would mean cheaper coal, freight and electricity, and greater manufactures.

"Never swear when you are playing tennis or running a gasoline engine," is the admonition of Rev. Joseph Carden, Beloit's whimsical exponent of the gentle art of getting things done.
He has been following the trail of the early voyagers down the lower Fox, though not in a canoe. In a letter to the Beloit News he describes a rather rough passage along the coast of Lake Winnebago to Neenah and a beautiful trip from thence to Appleton, taking occasion to rejoice that the clug machine was on its good behavior during the first leg of the voyage. "I talked to it gently," he explains, "and did nothing without asking its permission and saying please. I have known men to swear at a clug machine but they are braver than I. I wouldn't dare. I once thought unutterable things at it, sort of indirectly, but the machine knew it at once, and refused to budge an inch, until I had acquired a pleasant frame of mind. I signified at Beloit. I saw a young lad, a clerk. She was playing tennis and missed her stroke. Her gesture said — I said to her, 'You swore, inside, that time.' She said, 'How do you know?' 'I saw you,' I replied. 'The profane young lady lost the game.'" All of which may point a moral, but it only serves in this connection to introduce the thing which is uppermost in the pastor's mind. The valley of the lower Fox, teeming with industry, the river's power utilized to the utmost, the locks at every dam and the procession of large sized boats, laden with coal and merchandise, passing up and down from Oshkosh to Green Bay impel him to something about a project which he realized just as soon as everybody gets to talking about it, and talking hard. Here is his contribution on the subject and it is right to the point:

"The Fox is a river of locks and canals. There are nine locks in the upper river and seventeen in the lower.
"Now that I have seen the whole stream I am more than ever convinced of the feasibility and desirability of making an effort to make the Rock navigable for large boats as far up at least as Janesville. The Rock is a bigger stream than the Fox. It has more water, and can be made navigable at much less expense. Not one-half as many locks will be needed and the dams are already constructed.
"If the work were undertaken and accomplished, it would bring the Rock river cities in close touch by water with Chicago, St. Louis and the whole chain of Mississippi river cities.
It would divide railroad freight rates in two. It would give us cheaper coal, cheaper gas, cheaper electricity, and a very low rate on all heavy freight.
"A movement looking to the union of the Middle Rock with the great waterway should be undertaken at once. The boards of trade of Janesville, Beloit, Appleton, Oshkosh and Neenah, or other bodies, representing those cities, should get together and formulate a plan of campaign, comprehensive and thorough, and pursue it with vigor and perseverance. It would make the Rock river valley one of the best and most profitable manufacturing districts in the country. If Beloit could get into the 'great waterway' we should not have to offer businesses to manufacturers to locate here.
They would be only too glad to get the chance. Some of our enterprising business men should get together, look the thing over, and get hold of representative men in the other towns and set the wheels in motion. It's worth while."

GIBB'S LAKE FIRE
DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Conflagration on Russell Farm Burns
Straw Stack and Corn Crib—Houses Saved by Prompt Work.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Gibbs Lake, Sept. 9.—At about 11
a. m. yesterday what might have proved a very serious fire occurred at the Russell farm, occupied by Herman Pryor. The men were at work in the field and noticed the smoke and rushing to the house found a large straw-stack all ablaze and the wind soon fanned the blaze to the nearby corn cribs, a double one and a single one, which were burned to the ground, and only by the prompt arrival of the neighbors were the house and barn saved by throwing water on them from a large tank wagon and by a bucket brigade. Mr. Pryor lost a hog rack, a pair of bob sleighs, a double wagon box, buggy and plow. He has insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown. Miss Russell has no insurance.

The Badge of Honesty

Is an every wrapper of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because it list of ingredients composing it is printed there in plain English. Forty years of experience has proven its superior worth as a blood purifier and invigorating tonic for the cure of stomach disorders and all liver ills. It builds up the rundown system as no other tonic can in which alcohol is used. The active medical principles of native roots such as Golden Seal and Queen's root, Stone and Mandrake root, bloodroot and Black Cherry bark are extracted and preserved by the use of chemically pure triple refined glycerine. Send for Dr. R. V. Pierce's at Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet which gives exact facts from well-recognized medical authorities such as Drs. Bartholow, King, Scudder, Coe, Ellingwood and a host of others, showing that these roots can be depended upon for their curative action in all weak states of the stomach, accompanied by indigestion or dyspepsia as well as in all bilious or liver complaints and in all "wasting diseases" where there is loss of flesh and gradual running down of strength and system.

"Golden Medical Discovery" makes cleansing blood and so invigorates and regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, and through the whole system.
Thus all skin affections, blotches, pimples and eruptions as well as scrofulous swell-ings and old open running sores or ulcers are cured and healed. In treating old running sores, or ulcers, it is well to insure their healing to apply to them Dr.
Pierce's All-Healing Salve. If your druggist can't happen to have this Salve in stock, send fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and a large box of the "All-Healing Salve" will reach you by return post.

NEWS FROM NEAR-BY NEIGHBORS

REV. L. G. CATCHPOLE
DELIVERED ADDRESSSpoke of Child Rescue Work Before Baptist Association at Evanville.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evanville, Sept. 9.—The principal address at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Jamesville Baptist association was given by Rev. A. T. Tobson, D. D., of the University of Chicago. He gave a strong and able talk on "The Adolescent Period of Boys." He thought there was a growing demand for boys' clubs because of the evil influences surrounding the boy whether in the village or large city. He said that interest was the key to influence. He spoke of the settlement where a boy is taught many handicrafts and the Y. M. C. A. with its games and athletics as a method of interesting the boy in the right direction, and as a stepping stone toward gathering them into the church where they would be converted and their whole life given to Christ and the church. In closing he spoke of the underlying gratitude of the boy as he grew up. Rev. Frank Williams of Broadhead delivered the annual sermon Wednesday morning, taking as his subject "The Big Three—Faith, Hope and Love, Plus the Holy Spirit." He said that faith was the gift of God and a powerful factor in human life. Faith moves all business and commercial life and is the basis of divine life. Hope from the Christian's standpoint is the anchor to the soul. The anchor is only of service when in connection with the cable. He further said that love solves all problems, social and otherwise. Mrs. J. W. Borek of Johnson, president of Association, presided at the afternoon meeting. Mrs. Mary Smith of Lodi in her talk on "Wisconsin Women in Home Mission Service" gave an outline of what Wisconsin women are doing for home missions illustrating it with a map showing the working points. She made brief mention of some of the women that had become noted for their work in state missions. Very interesting was the address of Mrs. S. P. Metzger, who, with her husband, has for the past three years been doing missionary work in Okoko, Central Africa. Her talk was wonderfully on the education and life of the natives. Rev. L. G. Catchpole of Jamesville spoke in the interest of the child's rescue work. He said there were thirty-two organizations doing this kind of work in this country. Two hundred and sixty-five children have been thus cared for during the past year and twenty-one hundred children during the sixteen years of service. "Social Conditions in Porto Rico" was ably handled by J. B. Thomas, D. D., of Chicago. A special feature of the afternoon was the welcoming of the wives of the new pastors that had come into the field the past year. A project was introduced to send Christmas boxes to the home for missionary children in Chicago this year, and also to prepare boxes to send to Mrs. Antfield in London on her way back to the country. Christmas. The meetings thus far have been well attended. There are fifty delegates and many visiting friends in the city.

Broadhead, Sept. 10.—Miss Mabel Collins, daughter of Ashton agent J. E. Collins, was painfully burned about the face and hands last evening by an explosion of kerosene. Miss Collins was preparing supper and poured kerosene into the stove to start a fire. The fire had already been lighted by some other member of the household and the kerosene exploded, burning Miss Collins about the face and hands. Her burns are not serious and will cause no permanent injury, but are exceedingly painful.

GEORGE IRISH WAS BURIED ON SUNDAY

Funeral of Well-known Clinton Resident Took Place from Baptist Church.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Clinton, Sept. 9.—The funeral of Geo. Irish, which was held at the Baptist church on Sunday afternoon, was largely attended, the house being filled. Mr. Irish was born in Clinton county, New York, in April, 1815, but came to this place with his parents in 1819, which has ever since been his home. He was strictly an Irishman when some fourteen years of age, and was a graduate of the State School for the Blind at Janesville. Being very active he could not have been idle and for years traveled all over this part of the state selling teas, sugars, etc. Later he ran a wagon, selling goods and lumber produce, and at different times has been engaged in the regular retail grocery trade, carrying all his accounts and business accurately in his head. In 1863 he joined the Baptist church of which he has ever since been a faithful member. Some years ago he married, his widow surviving. He also leaves four sisters and a brother besides hosts of other relatives and friends to mourn his departure.

His funeral was held at the Baptist church on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 9, at 2 o'clock. The K. P. lodge had charge of the program, which was a grand one. J. A. Aylward being sent by the state central committee to Kenosha, his last address, Mr. Aylward, spoke here in his address, giving a fine address on the subject of the funeral of the present day. He was followed by Senator Whitehead, who spoke very interestingly on state legislation. Then came the very close and highly exciting baseball game between a team from Darlen and the Clinton K. P. players, which was won by the locals in a score of four to three. In the evening Hans Hanson was played at the opera-house to a large and appreciative audience. This was followed by a dance. The dance and show band furnished excellent music during the afternoon and evening.

A number from here are in attendance at the Baptist convention, now being held in Evansville.

The sound of the school bell is again heard in the land.

Wm. Jacobson and wife have returned to their home in Christine, N. D., leaving here Sunday evening.

Somebody on Sunday night not only stole Mrs. Stoney's peaches, which she had been watching to ripen, and which were not yet fit to eat, but broke out the top of the small tree. J. H. Green and son are at the state fair this week with four of their fine horses.

M. P. Treat and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Cooksey, and J. B. Adams are among those who are in Evansville this week.

At a meeting of the lecture committee, held on Monday evening, Prof. Reese was elected president; R. W. Choever, secretary, and E. B. Howes, treasurer. The first number is to be a lecture on Oct. 8. The course is to be exceptionally fine.

While returning from a drive Sunday afternoon and on their way to see the damage done to Reeder Bros' store, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. M. Reeder and baby Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kline and baby Bradley had a very close call to what might have been a very serious runaway, when going south on Durand street, just in front of Dr. Woodson's residence. The neck-yoke loop broke, letting the tongue drop down to the ground. The horses were frightened by the carriage running onto their heels and started to run and kick. Very fortunately the tongue ran into the culvert in front of Switzer's blacksmith shop, breaking off and stopping the carriage so suddenly that the horses broke the whiffletree and tore themselves loose. No one was hurt and not a small damage done to carriage—certainly a very lucky ending to what looked like a very serious situation.

O. L. Woodward is preparing to set out 100,000 young glassed plants in his garden as soon as we get a rain. Mrs. Carlo and Mrs. Scott and family have been spending the past few days with relatives at Evansville.

Elmer Pease and wife of Milwaukee, H. H. Galloway and wife of Madison and C. O. Warner and son Charles of Beloit were among the number from abroad who came to attend the Geo. Irish funeral on Sunday.

When the alarm of fire was turned in on Sunday it was found that a fierce blaze had broken out in the rear of the Commercial house, which is a fire trap at best, and in its present unimpaired condition the wonder is that the fire should be extinguished with so little damage being done. The prompt response of the fire department and the timely work soon had all danger removed, greatly to the relief of all other occupants along the street.

Geo. Kommerer left for New Mexico on Saturday, where he has a prospect of a large business.

A JANESVILLE CASE

Many More Like It in Janesville.

The following case is but one of many similar occurring daily in Janesville. It is an easy matter to verify its correctness. Surely you cannot ask for better proof than such conclusive evidence.

Chas. W. Allen, of 126 Chatham St., Janesville, Wis., says: "After my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills, I am ready to recommend them as a remedy that can be relied upon in kidney troubles and backache. I tried many different remedies for these complaints, but until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the Peoples' drug company I found little or no help. After a few days' use of Doan's Kidney Pills, the aching and other symptoms left me and since I discontinued their use, have never returned."

Just a light sprinkle in seven weeks surely makes hard, dry, dusty ground and roads.

Wednesday was one of the hottest days of the season. A few more days of this kind of weather and corn will dry up whether it fills and ripens or not.

A. J. Wilkins was here to celebrate Labor day.

Mrs. Brown is spending a little time with her daughter at the lake.

Frank Bradley's family spent the past week at Delavan lake.

Mrs. H. Cheever is visiting Miss Marie Jackson at Baraboo.

E. B. Hawk and L. Conley's horses are being pushed along rapidly.

The new and tasty colony on H. Cheever's large house places it in fine appearance, making a great improvement to the looks of West Milwaukee street.

C. A. Salisbury, who lately returned from a trip to Texas, seems to be highly pleased with the appearance of the country down there.

Keep the citizens' lecture course in mind.

Mrs. H. Tarrant, who has purchased the place recently vacated by L. L. Ollis, is now having it repaired and will soon have it in good shape.

C. W. Irish will soon have his new home rearranged and fixed up in the shape, and hopes to be occupying the same in the course of a few weeks.

John Crotchenberg has rented his shop and house and will soon leave for New York, where he will spend the winter.

The county organization of the old soldiers met at Milton on Tuesday and decided to hold the meeting here next year.

Clinton was well represented at the state fair, and all say it was the best ever. The exhibits were plenty and good, the crowds fine and the attendance large.

And now comes the Elkhorn fair and everybody from here attends that for one or more days.

Several large bullfights passed through here Tuesday, waiting over between trains, attracting much attention.

In order to keep up with the times, Clinton now has at least five agents for Texas land.

Dr. Thomas and family have been spending the past few days with their people near Fairland.

Jas. Whigam and wife are visitors at the fair.

Mrs. R. W. Cheever is spending a few days in Milwaukee.

Miss Alice Tuttle is expected to arrive next week and will spend the fall here.

Orange-blossom was adopted for bride-cake because the orange branch bears fruit and flowers at once, and in thus a sign of plenty.

Girl Attacked; Town Roused.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—As the result of a savage attack in which she sustained more than 10 wounds, Miss Anna Doherty, a member of one of the old time families of Kenosha, is in critical condition in the Kenosha hospital.

Henry Humphrey, her confederate, was hurried to Racine in a closed automobile to evade the furious crowds which thronged the streets.

HOLME'S STORE

COFFEE SERMON

If I were to give a sermon on coffee I think I would start in by saying "Coffee is partly in buying and partly in making." I believe that poor coffee can as often be traced to poor cooking as to the coffee itself.

Coffee should not be cooked for any length of time. I am going to give you two receipts for making good coffee:

Put into your coffee pot a large tablespoon of coffee for each person; mix with a little cold water and slightly beaten egg. Then add a cup of boiling water for each tablespoon full of coffee. Boil just three minutes and then set back on a warm place for ten or fifteen minutes before serving.

Another good receipt is: Allow a large tablespoon of coffee to each cup of cold water, put on stove and bring to a boiling point. Pour carefully and you will have a clear cup of delicious coffee. If convenient, put the coffee in the cold water and let it stand over night.

If you will try either of these recipes on a pound of Golden Blend, and if Golden Blend doesn't suit your taste exactly I'll blend specially for you in half pound lot and make you a present of the coffee until until I have suited your taste, then you will have no more trouble with coffee.

COURT OVERRULED DEMURRER TODAY

Defendant's Demurrer to Complaint in Police Was Not Sustained by Judge Grimm.

This morning in the circuit court the demurrer of the defendant to the plaintiff's complaint in the action of the State of Wisconsin on relation of John Brown vs. George Appleby, was overruled by Judge Grimm after hearing the arguments of the attorneys. The demurrer filed by Mr. W. G. Wheeler stated three grounds of demurrer. They were that there was a defect of parties defendant in that the Board of Police and Police Commission, and George D. Simpson were necessary parties and had not been joined; that the plaintiff did not have the legal capacity to sue and that there was a misjoinder of causes of action.

The attorneys merely argued the first ground. Mr. Wheeler argued that the court had no right to litigate as to the rights of the commission of Mr. Simpson without joining them parties defendant. Mr. Phipps, who spoke first for the plaintiff, argued that the question here at issue was not as to the rights of Mr. Simpson on the commission but as to the right of George Appleby to the office of chief of police. Mr. John Cunningham also made an argument for the plaintiff and spoke on the same point.

At the close of the arguments Judge Grimm overruled the demurrer.

The argument of a motion to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed for the J. H. Smith Pen Company was also taken up this morning.

While denying some of the allegations of the complaint, Mr. Smith, who appeared for the defendant, Edward Smith, said that his client wanted a receiver and A. E. Bingham was appointed by the court under a $5,000 bond.

New Citizen
Carl Doering's petition for naturalization papers was heard by Judge Grimm this morning and he was admitted. Doering resides in the town of Bradford and gave Germany as his birthplace.

The matter of the Center drainage district No. 1 was set for October 1st.

Police Routed Ball-Players: In answer to a call sent in from the corner of West Bluff and Chatham streets, the patrol wagon and officers made a quick trip to the Third ward boys' evening and scattered a dozen boys who were playing football under one of the electric lights. Bitten by Dog: A wood-carver by the name of Johnson, who is employed at the Choate-Hollister works, complained to the police today of being badly bitten in the thigh by a dog. The officers were looking for the dog this afternoon.

"Charley Howe" Finished Third: In the 2:16 pace yesterday at the State Fair races, "Charley Howe," a horse belonging to Chas. Schaller of this city, came in third. The time was 2:08 1/2. Mr. Schaller was the driver.

Large Melon Baked Window: Saturday night, while putting melons from a load outside to the inside of E. R. Winslow's store on N. Main street, one of the melons slipped out of the hands of Mr. Winslow, who was holding in the work, and crashed through the plate glass window near the door, leaving quite a large hole. The loss is about twenty-five dollars.

Praise and Blame.
The mere fact that praise and blame are at present the corner stone of our moral and social systems goes for nothing. We shall outgrow that just as we have more or less outgrown the primitive desire to kill each other. And can any one deny that a world in which blame did not exist would be far more habitable, civilized and logical?

SLIGHT GAIN IN SCHOOL ENROLLMENT

Sixty-seven More Scholars on the First Day Than There Were Registered Last Year.

The number of scholars who enrolled at the first day of school is larger by 67 than the number last year. About 390 were present at the opening of High school, but today and yesterday it was expected that the number would be increased to 400, bringing the number up to what it was last year. In a few of the grade schools the enrollment is not as large as last year, but others have quite an increase. The following table shows the enrollments of the various schools compared:

School	1907.	1908.
Washington	298	299
Adams	343	364
Jefferson	353	387
Lincoln	179	205
Webster	132	130
Garfield	116	120
Douglas	130	113
Grant	115	120
Jackson	62	50
High School	400	390
Total	2,128	2,105

The Freshman class this year contains about one hundred and forty scholars, and the Seniors are starting out with a class of over sixty members. The Sophomore class has about one hundred members and the Junior about ninety.

R. J. WHITTON SHOT BY BUTTE FOOTPADS

Former Janesville Businessman Received Bullet in Right Thigh When He Refused to Halt.

According to advices from Butte, Montana, R. J. Whitton, who at one time conducted a shoe store in the Hayes block, this city, was assaulted and shot in the right thigh by hold-up men while on his way home from business one evening last week. The assailants did not cut any of the large arteries or veins and the injury is not expected to prove a serious one unless complications set in. He was fired upon when he refused to heed the footpads' command to halt. The Butte police have thus far failed to apprehend the guilty parties. Mr. Whitton is now with the Hayes-Davenport Shoe Co. in the Montana city.

FIRE IN FIELDS ON EVANSVILLE CUT-OFF

C. & N. W. Section Men Kept Busy Yesterday Putting Out Blazes Started by Engine Sparks.

Southern Wisconsin, as well as the northern section of the state and Minnesota, needs rain badly, and the possibility of grass fires is a constant menace. Section men in the employ of the C. & N. W. Ry. Co. were busy all day yesterday fighting incipient configurations along the Evansville cut-off, north of this city. Sparks from the locomotives set fire to the dry grass in several localities and the flames spread so rapidly in some instances as to threaten stacks of hay and grain and even buildings. The continued drought has been directly responsible for two blazes in Janesville within the past few days. One of them was a grass fire near the end of St. Lawrence avenue which was extinguished with no little difficulty by the department.

COLORED LADIES SAY HOTEL PROPRIETORS ARE BRUTES
Mrs. Emma Hamilton and Miss Cora Nelson unparagonably condemn men who refused them shelter.

Are Janesville hotel proprietors a lot of brutes? Mrs. Emma Hamilton and Miss Cora Nelson, the two colored women who had hard time obtaining shelter here Tuesday evening, say so. They further aver that they conveyed these compliments face to face, when lodging was refused them. Miss Nelson hails from Philadelphia, where, she affirms, so long as a colored girl is respectable and has the price of a room, she is admitted by the best hotels. The indignant couple departed for Fond du Lac yesterday morning.

Danderine

Grows Hair
and we can PROVE IT!

DANDERINE is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunlight are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. No exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It also imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

A lady from St. Paul writes in substance, as follows:
"When I began using Danderine my hair would not come to my shoulders and now it is away below my hips."
Another from Newark, N. J., writes:
"I have been using Danderine regularly, and my hair has grown so fast that I have had to cut it twice in the last few weeks. I have the most beautiful long and thick hair anyone would want to have."

NOW at all druggists in three sizes 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle

Danderine enjoys a greater sale than any other one preparation regardless of kind or brand, and it has a much greater sale than all of the other hair preparations in the world combined.

FREE To show how quickly Danderine grows hair, we will send a large amount of free hair oil to anyone who sends this free coupon to the CHAPTER V. Incognito.

At noon, precisely, Maitland stirred between the sheets for the first time since he had thrown himself into his bed—stirred, and, confused by what over alarm had awakened him, yawned stupidly, and sat up, rubbing clenched fists in his eyes to clear them of sleep's cobwebs. Then he bent forward, clasping his knees, smiled largely, replaced the smile with a thoughtful frown, and in such wise contemplated the foot of the bed for several minutes—his first conscious impression, that he had something delightful to look forward to yielding to a vague recollection of a prolonged thrill of anticipation—as if the telephone bell in the front room had been ringing for some time.

But he waited in vain for a repetition of the sound, and eventually concluded that he had been mistaken; it had been an echo from his dreams, most likely. Besides, who should call him up? Not two people knew that he was in town; not even O'Hagan was aware that he had returned to his rooms that morning.

He gazed again, stretching wide his arms, sat up on the edge of the bed, and heard the clock strike 12.

Noon and . . . He had an engagement at two. He brightened at the memory and, jumping up, pressed an electric call button on the wall. By the time he had padded barefoot to the bathroom and turned on the cold-water tap, O'Hagan's knock summoned him to the hall door.

"Back again, O'Hagan; and in a desperate rush. I'll want you to shave me and send some telegrams, please. Must be off by 1:30. You may get out my gray-striped flannels"—here he paused, calculating his costume with careful discrimination—"and a black-striped negligee shirt; gray socks; russet low shoes; black and white check tie—broad wings. You know where to find them all?"

"Shure yiss, sor," O'Hagan showed no evidence of surprise; the eccentricities of Mr. Maitland could not move him, who was used to them through long association and observation. He moved away to execute his instructions, quietly efficient. By the time Maitland had finished splashing and gasping in the bathtub everything was ready for the ceremony of dressing.

In other words, 20 minutes later Maitland, bathed, shaved, and still in dressing gown and slippers, was seated at his desk, a cup of black coffee steaming at his elbow, a number of yellow telegraph blanks before him, a pen poised between his fingers.

It was in a mind to send a wire to Crossy, apologizing for his desertion of the night just gone, and announcing his intention to rejoin the party from which the motor trip to New York had been as planned but a temporary defection. In time for dinner that same evening. He nibbled the end of the penholder, selecting phrases, then looked up at the attentive O'Hagan.

"Bring me a New Haven time table, please," he began, "and—"

The door bell interrupted his words, clamoring shrilly.

"What the deuce?" he demanded. "Who can that be?" Answer it, will you, O'Hagan?"

He put down the pen, swallowed his coffee, and lit a cigarette, listening to the murmurs at the hall door. An instant later, O'Hagan returned, bearing a slip of white parchment which he deposited on the desk before Maitland.

"James Barleson Smith," Maitland read aloud from the faultlessly engraved card. "I don't know him. What does he want?"

"Wouldn't say, sor; seemed surprised when I told him you were in," said he was glad to hear it—business press, says he."

"Smith?" But I never heard the name before. What does he look like?"

"A gentleman, sor, he th' clothes av him an' th' way he talks."

"Well . . . Devil take the man! Show him in."

"Very good, sor."

Maitland swung around in his desk chair, his back to the window, expression politely curious, as his caller entered the room, pushing, hat in hand, just across the threshold.

He proved to be a man apparently of middle age, of height approximating Maitland's; his shoulders were slightly rounded as if from habitual bending over a desk, his pose mild and deferential. By his eyeglasses and peering look, he was near-sighted; by his dress, a gentleman of taste and judgment as well as of means to gratify both. A certain jaunty and sunny touch in his attire suggested a person of leisure who had just run down from his country place for a day in town.

His voice, when he spoke, did nothing to dispel the illusion.

"Mr. Maitland?" he opened the conversation briskly. "I trust I do not intrude? I shall be brief as possible, if you will favor me with a private interview."

Maitland remarked a voice well modulated and a good choice of words. He rose courteously.

"I should be pleased to do so," he suggested, "if you could advance any reason for such a request."

Mr. Smith smiled discreetly, fumbling in his side pocket. A second slip of cardboard appeared between his fingers as he stepped over toward Maitland.

"If I had not feared it might deprive me of this interview, I should have sent in my business card at once," he said. "Permit me."

Maitland accepted the card and elevated his brows. "Oh!" he said, putting it down, his manner becoming perceptibly less cordial. "I say, O'Hagan."

"Yes?"

"I shall be busy for—Will half an hour satisfy you, Mr. Smith?"

"You are most kind," the stranger bowed.

"In half an hour, O'Hagan, you may return."

"Very good, sor." And the hall door closed.

"So," said Maitland, turning to face the man squarely, "you are from police headquarters?"

"As you see," Mr. Smith motioned delicately toward his business card—as he called it.

"Well"—after a moment's pause, "I am a detective, you understand."

"Perfectly," Maitland assented, unmoved.

His caller seemed partly amused, partly—but very slightly—embarrassed. "I have been assigned to cover the affair of last night," he continued blandly. "I presume you have no objection to giving me what information you may possess."

"Credentialed?"

The man's amusement was made visible in a fugitive smile, half-hidden by his small and neatly trimmed mustache. Mutely eloquent, he turned back the lapel of his coat, exposing a small shield, at which Maitland glanced casually.

"Very well," he consented, bored but resigned. "Fire ahead, but make it as brief as you can; I've an engagement in"—glancing at the clock—"an hour, and must dress."

"I'll detain you no longer than is essential. . . . Of course you understand how keen we are after this man Anstey."

"What puzzles me," Maitland interrupted, "is how you got wind of the affair so soon."

"Then you have not heard?" Mr. Smith exhibited polite surprise.

"I am just out of bed."

"Anstey escaped shortly after you left Maitland Manor."

"Ah!"

Mr. Smith knitted his brows, evidently at a loss whether to ascribe Maitland's exclamation as due to surprise, regret, or relief. Which pleased Maitland, who had been at pains to make his tone noncommittal. In point of fact he was neither surprised nor regretful.

"Thunder!" he continued, slowly, "I forgot to 'phone Higgins."

"That is why I called. Your butler did not know where you could be found. You had left in great haste, promising to send constables; you failed to do so; Higgins got no word. In the course of an hour or so his charge began to choke—or pretended to. Higgins became alarmed and removed the gag. Anstey lay quiet until his face resumed its normal color and then began to abuse Higgins for a thick-headed idiot."

Mr. Smith interrupted himself to chuckle lightly.

"You noticed a resemblance?" he resumed.

Maitland, too, was smiling. "Something of the sort."

"It is really remarkable, if you will permit me to say so," Smith was studying his host's face intently. "Higgins, poor fellow, had his faith shaken to the foundations. This Anstey must be a clever actor as well as a master burglar. Having cursed Higgins' roganil 'branch, he got his 'scoold' with and explained that he was—Mr. Maitland! Conceal Higgins' position. What could he do?"

"What he did, I gather."
"Precisely."
"And Anstey?"
"Once loosed, he knocked Higgins over with the butt of a revolver, jumped out of the window and vanished. By the time the butler got his senses back, Anstey, presumably, was miles away. . . . Mr. Maitland!" said Smith, sharply.
"Yes?" responded Maitland, elevating his brows, refusing to be startled.
"Why," crisply, "didn't you send the constables from Greenfields, according to your promise?"
Maitland laughed uneasily and looked down, visibly embarrassed, acting with consummate address, playing the game for all he was worth; and enjoying it hugely.
"Why . . . I . . . Really, Mr. Smith, I must confess—"

GANS BEATEN BY NELSON

THE LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPION
DEFENDS HIS TITLE.

Colored Fighter Is Unmercifully Pounded and Takes the Count in the Twenty-First Round.

Colma Arena, San Francisco, Sept. 10.—Building Nelson clinched his claim to the lightweight pugilistic championship by defeating Joe Gans for the second time at Colma arena Wednesday afternoon. The fight ended in the twenty-first round when Gans, beaten down by a succession of blows from his sturdy conqueror, failed to get upon his feet within the count of ten. The veteran colored fighter was severely punished, but the champion, too, bore the marks of battle. From the first clang of the going in the last moment Nelson forced the fighting, never giving ground and gradually battered down his older and less vigorous opponent.

Gans succumbed after being unmercifully trounced. Nelson, in the last round rained right and left blows to jaw and body and Gans sank to the floor. Mechanically the now-defeated fighter watched Referee Eddie Smith wave his hands, apparently too far gone to hear him count. Not until the count of ten was finished did Gans, when pale, his face terribly cut and his eyes glassy, attempt to rise. He realized, however, that it was too late and feebly declared: "I have positively fought my last battle."

Nelson said: "Gans was tougher than before. He was in good shape and he fought me a different kind of a fight. From now on I will never fight a colored man again. I shook hands with Billy Papke today and we both made the compact."

Woman Dies Aged 113 Years.

Tupelo, Kan., Sept. 10.—Mrs. Sallie Rutledge died here Wednesday at the age of 113 years. She was born in Middletown, Ky., in 1795, and had never experienced a week's sickness in her life. Mrs. Rutledge came to Tupelo 43 years ago. Four generations of children gathered at her home here last Sunday.

WINSTON CHURCHILL AND HIS PROSPECTIVE BRIDE, MISS CLEMENTINE HOZIER.

London, Eng., Sept. 10.—The social eyes of England are bent upon the approaching Churchill-Hozier wedding quite as much as were the American eyes on the Longworth-Roosevelt nuptials. There is no denying that Winston Churchill is the "coming man" in English politics. For many years he has been considered the prize matrimonial "catch" by English matrons with eligible daughters.

Mr. Churchill remained heart free until he met the beautiful Miss Clementine Hozier. This young English statesman is the happiest man in the kingdom for the date of his marriage has been set for September 15.

Miss Hozier is the daughter of the late Sir Henry Hozier, who, after a distinguished military career, became secretary of the Lloyd's. She is a clever musician and speaks half a dozen languages fluently. Among her cousins is the Earl of Alder.

Two Things Worth Remembering. Learn those two things: Never be discouraged because good things get on so slowly here, and never fail daily to do that good which lies next to your hand.—George MacDonald.

Mr. Churchill's wedding will make the fourth ministerial wedding within a year.

Exonerated, "Gu." Will Do Tried, Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 10.—Wilson Alton Wiley, who shot and killed Joseph L. Watkins last Friday night, was exonerated Wednesday by the verdict of the coroner's jury, but he has been retained in jail and will be prosecuted for murder by the county attorney.

WORLD'S RECORDS FOR AEROPLANE

Washington, Sept. 10.—Orville Wright, in three phenomenal flights at Fort Myer Wednesday, established new aeroplane records that not only assure the success of the official trials before the army board, but indicate that aerial flight is now only a matter of development. War on land and sea will find in the aeroplane, it is now conceded by military men, a valuable means of reconnaissance and possibly of carriage.

Two flights of approximately one hour each, and another flight in which two men were whirled through the air for upward of six minutes were the achievements of the Wright brothers' aeroplane Wednesday. That these flights, record-breaking as they were, will even be surpassed by Orville Wright during his trials at Fort Myer is confidently predicted. The first flight, made in the morning, in which the machine circled the drill grounds at the fort 57 times in 57 minutes and 31 seconds, was surpassed in the evening, when a flight of 52 minutes and 15 seconds was made.

New Era in Progress.
Not satisfied with breaking all distance and time records for a heavier-than-air flying machine, Mr. Wright took Lieut. Frank P. Lahm, 5th regiment of the signal corps, for a spin around the drill grounds, making a new record for a two-man flight. All this happened so quickly and unostentatiously that the spectators, among whom were members of the cabinet and high officers of the army and navy, could hardly realize that history had been made and that a new era in the progress of the civilized world was begun.

The morning flight was witnessed by only a handful of enthusiasts, but the news spread so rapidly that fully a thousand people gathered on the military reservation across the Potomac from the national capital to see the afternoon event.

At 5:10, as the sun was disappearing below the Virginia horizon, the latest invention of man to challenge the laws of nature rose grandly into space and sailed over the greenward of the drill ground. Higher and higher it rose, turned at a slight angle as the aviator brought it around at the far side of the field, and raced along at increasing speed. There was hardly a quiver of the aeroplane in the first few rounds of the field, Mr. Wright evidently having the steering apparatus well in hand.
